

An out of control government is certain destruction for any nation. Repairing the system before it fails, is the only way to avoid calamity.

Our nation is represented in Congress by one in every 35,000 citizens. But this system allows overpopulated areas to govern the sparse areas. The distortions enslave the rest of the nation, to provide “welfare” at their bidding, to fund their wasteful notions. This is not the same welfare as was sought in our Constitution; that welfare denoted a healthy and safe commerce system.

The fault is fixable, if we institute a similar arrangement of what the original Constitution, the Articles of Confederation, had defined as our original state representation.

Representation According to Articles of Confederation

Excerpt of Article V

No State shall be represented in Congress by less than two, nor more than seven members; and no person shall be capable of being a delegate for more than three years in any term of six years; nor shall any person, being a delegate, be capable of holding any office under the United States, for which he, or another for his benefit, receives any salary, fees or emolument of any kind.

Each State shall maintain its own delegates in a meeting of the States, and while they act as members of the committee of the States.

In determining questions in the United States in Congress assembled, each State shall have one vote.

Let’s break that section of Article V down to our current applications.

No State shall be represented in Congress by less than two, nor more than seven members;

Bravo! A single state should not have overwhelming vote over others. Currently it takes ten of the plains states to override a California decision, and these areas are drastically different in needs and political views. It should also be noted that the state that is in political disarray, is imposing its policies on those that have order.

and no person shall be capable of being a delegate for more than three years in any term of six years;

Obviously, the founders did not want seniority to drive decisions. We currently have two and four year terms, but no limit to the career of a delegate. Our generations have never experienced non senior representatives, but limiting consecutive terms may have great advantages. For currently, all bills are filtered through exclusive senior committees.

The way this passage was written, the individual state defined the delegate’s term, and could essentially provide a different delegate for each debate, if they desired. They were only limited on seniority and the number of representatives. This arrangement could provide experts for each topic, assigned by the state representatives instead of the lobbyists. But there should be tight restrictions on acceptable delegate behavior and allegiance to the Constitution.

nor shall any person, being a delegate, be capable of holding any office under the United States, for which he, or another for his benefit, receives any salary, fees or emolument of any kind.

The essence of graft and corruption! It is strange that a politician, with no previous work history, usually become very wealthy within a very short time. Speeches and books are popular ways of getting instant cash for an officer, and this is not allowed. There are too many ways to hide corruption when the whole environment is swarming with greed. That is why the founders made the next statement.

Each State shall maintain its own delegates in a meeting of the States, and while they act as members of the committee of the States. In determining questions in the United States in Congress assembled, each State shall have one vote.

No more voting for their own raises and unrestricted perks! All their income and expenses would be directly controlled by their own state. You might get a well organized representation, if the delegate has closer ties to the state.

Imagine if each state held land near the Capitol, which acted as an Embassy for the state. The interaction and quarters of the delegates would be in a state owned facility, except when meeting in Congress. Each state would maintain their facility, and the control of their territory. The delegates would convene together representing their state appeals within their Embassy associations, and this would reduce rogue representatives, as they would need to persuade their home state delegates before submitting items to the Congress of all states. Submissions to the Congress could be limited to a whole state agreement, instead of individual requests, but still allow individual speakers. Then only one vote per state, removes the burden of slavery from the sparsely populated states.

There are several other items in the Articles of Confederation, which would improve and repair our current mob-representation system.

Other Observations to Fix

Our current Constitution defines only two items as treason:

1-Failure to protect the borders, or inhibiting a state from protecting its borders from an invasion. (This statement includes illegal aliens as well as military invasions)

2-Providing aid and support to an enemy of a state. (Modern weapons given to Egypt)

Our President B.O. and his staff are guilty, on both of these items, and they boldly support anyone that applies aid to this end. Any one of these offences are valid impeachable items, and failure to impeach, is submission to the offender.

Impeachment is not a tedious court trial, like was done for Clinton. Each offence is a House Representative vote, and three fourths vote decides on removal from office, from any office. If ten articles of impeachment were brought to vote, there should be ten votes. We are not trying to save face of the officer; we are trying to establish a non chaotic government. This is the method that our current Constitution has established.

Required Budget Changes

No Administration should be allowed to spend more in their budget term, than their predicted income over their expected term period, in order to remove irresponsible burdens on future administrations.

If a debt occurs in the final term year, or at the beginning of a term, then 20 percent of the budget should be applied to removing the debt. If a budget is not created at the beginning of a term year, then the budget shall stand at 80 percent of the average predicted income, and proportioned for 12 months.

Budget overruns may be deferred in time of war in which we or our allies are directly attacked, but an undeclared war will not apply.

No gifts or aid will be given to any nation, which does not support our nation, and our constitution, and our historically allied nations.

Any allied nation must allow safe diplomatic passage of our citizens and our military, yet our citizens and military shall be under the rules of that nation, as applied to their own citizens.

No military aid or training is allowed to any nation that is not an ally with a history of supporting our constitution through at least two of our consecutive administrations, and allowing safe passage of our citizens and military. Foreign aid and training restrictions shall include private education and military training within the United States.

No national budget shall be allowed to burden the citizens beyond 10 percent of their income. The current excesses in our government demand a higher rate, but each administration must reduce the current tax rate with reasonable diligence, to reach the rate of 10 percent or less for each citizen.

All social agendas shall be the sole burden of each individual state. Each state shall define and support their own education and welfare, and not be forced to conform to any national system that they deem immoral or objectionable.

No state shall be force to immigrate foreigners. Any state may define and enforce limits to foreign immigrations or migrations from other states, but may not expel their occupant citizens that are not foreigners.

Any public officer that is suspect of circumventing these restrictions on budgets, and foreign aid, or other offences shall immediately be suppressed from public decisions. If evading of restrictions is proven; the officer shall be removed from office. The accusers shall also be removed from public decisions until a judgment is determined. The actions taken in suspicion shall not be designed to protect the officer, but solely to protect our nation. The affected states may supply temporary delegates during the investigations.

Taxes

Taxes should be equal to all, and not favoring any individual or corporation. There should be no tax of any sort, for inheritance or possessions or gifts within a generational related family, unless it is deemed a payment of employment, and therefore an income. Personal loans and repayment without added interest, within a generational related family may not be taxed.

Charities from active membership that fulfill written requirements, and are either biblical or constitutionally based, may exclude the charity organization from income tax, except when items are sold.

There should be no tax deduction or offset of any individual's income for any freewill offerings.

Human Rights

Any citizen or private enterprise has the right to select or exclude any manner of person from their home, employment, or business. The government must exclude any citizen or foreigner from employment or services if deemed a detriment to the national moral character of a biblically based society.

A non-citizen does not have rights to the public or national courts, unless the appeal is defined in international agreements.

A foreign illegal entry to this nation will be removed to country of entry without delay and without appeal, except when criminal charges apply. The illegal foreign criminals shall be treated as foes of war, with a military trial. A birth within the states, by any foreigner, is not a naturalized citizen, and will be documented as a foreigner.
